  - Doctrinal Significance of the Resurrection.
    - The death of Christ is the accomplishment of redemption. The resurrection of Christ is the application of redemption. See Jn 12:24; Heb 2:9; Phil 2:8-9.

    - What did Christ’s death purchase? Resurrection: Freedom from death to everlasting life.
      - Christ’s death bought regeneration, which is life in the heart. (Eph 2:4-6).
      - Christ’s death bought our justification, which is a life-verdict (Rom 4:25).
      - Christ’s death bought our bodily resurrection, which is eternal life bodily (2 Cor 4:14).
      - Christ’s death also bought the restoration of the created order, which is eternal life for the new heavens and the new earth.
